

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Disclosed are methods and devices which comprise providing a laser beam having a pre-defined shape along a beam axis and exposing a plurality of corneal regions to a plurality of asymmetrical laser beam subportions to affect the shape of said cornea without introducing any substantial asymmetry to the shape of said cornea.